

The ALDER belongs to the birch plants. No native tree species is best placed to thrive on wet soil and thereby secure the riversides and waters. The special thing about the ALDER is, that after the cut, new shoots grow again on the round timber.

It is also said that the ALDER has beneficial properties. The book „The gentile medicine of the trees“ published a letter from a tyrolean beekeeper, describing his experiences with alder wood for humans and bees. Not like humans, bees feel well on negative earth rays and water veins. Bees would leave beehives made out of ALDER wood. Humans, on the other hand, would stay on a floor of ALDER.

Parquet from Alder tree creates impressions and healthy living space

Bring the nature into your home.

The alder is characterized by its warm, reddish brown colour. It has fine pores and is a medium hard wood. The velvety soft surface is brilliant for living rooms and bedrooms. The alder radiates a certain lightness and enchants your home in a comfortable oasis.

Due to our ecological treatment our parquet floor is free from harmful substances. After an oil | wax treatment, the pores remain open, so your parquet can „breathe“. The special feature of the alder is to create a positive ambience. According to the experiences alder keeps away negative rays and water veins.
